The diagram illustrates a process flow involving a 'Payment' and an 'Account'. It features several rectangular blocks of varying sizes and colors (light blue, dark blue, and white) connected by lines, representing data points and their relationships. The flow starts with a 'Payment' block at the bottom, which leads to an 'Account' block. From the 'Account', the flow proceeds to an 'available' block. There are also direct paths from the 'Payment' to the 'available' block. The diagram includes various intermediate blocks and lines, suggesting a complex system of data exchange or a multi-step process.
